California Dreamin' of a Long Roof V8

original image by David Thibodeau post process by Martin Callahan

When it comes to finding gems, you usually have to get your hands dirty doing a bit of digging.

Fortunately, the internet makes it a whole lot easier these days to dig in places besides just your own back yard for treasures.

From the comforts of his home on the shores of the Atlantic here in New England, David Thibodeau helped his son do some digging on the shores of the Pacific in California.

Read the story of the gem of a car they were able to find on page 11.

the Profile is the newsletter of the White Mountain Chapter of the BMW Car Club of America and is published on a regular basis at least four times a year. See page 12 for publication schedule details.

Club members are encouraged to submit BMW and/or club related articles and photos for publication consideration. No submission is too short, really. Even if it's just a paragraph or two, send it in! Longer features are certainly welcome as well. All submissions must be digital, and all images must be submitted at their highest available resolution.

Submission deadlines are always the first Friday of the month prior to the newsletter issue.

Where Will You Celebrate BMW's 100th?

by David Thibodeau, President

Whether it's a BMW CCA gathering in Brookline, Massachusetts; Gatineau, Quebec; Monterrey, California; or Munich, Germany; or whether you're just hanging with friends at the next White Mountain Chapter event, I do hope you find yourself some time somewhere in the next few weeks to celebrate BMW's 100th anniversary with your Ultimate Driving Machine.

Our combined social and driving tour to Yankee Candle Factory in Western Massachusetts was enjoyed by a small but enthusiastic group who also witnessed the spectacular scenery from the top of Mt. Sugarloaf.

CELEBRATING
100 YEARS

In June, the Chapter hosted its first Street Survival event in some time. We are again reminded this is among the most, if not THE most, rewarding activities we participate in as a club. Please do consider asking a teen you know to attend – after just a few hours they carry away safe driving habits that will serve them for life.

hope you find some time to celebrate

Bavarian carmaker's long and storied past are expected at this increasingly popular show. From classic 2002's to modern M-cars, all manner of Bimmers will fill up the lawn providing the sights and sounds. Feeling competitive? Have your clean car skills judged by the concours experts, or just wonder why your car doesn't look as good.

I've been surprisingly impressed by Canaan Motorsports Park where we will have our Summer Heat Driving School on the weekend of August 6 and 7. This newly developed road course with grassy runoff areas will challenge your driving skills in different ways than you've grown accustomed to at New Hampshire Motor Speedway.

Tschüß!

As far as events to come, on August 14 we head down to BMW CCA Day at Lars Anderson Automobile museum. Just about all vehicles from the

Pete McDonough
WMC member since 2003

In this month's member spotlight is Pete McDonough.

In 2014, the long-time copy collection editor of the Profile, Rachele Harrison wanted to step down; so a pitch was made requesting somebody step up and take over for Rachele; fortunately for everyone, Pete wasted no time answering the call.

"I had been away from the club for a few years and had been looking for an opportunity to get involved again. When I read the call for a new copy collection editor, I jumped at the chance. Since then I've had a lot of fun engaging with the newsletter "behind the scenes" and becoming more active in the club again."

Pete loves sharing his enthusiasm for the marque with other BMW enthusiasts, and enjoys the company of like-minded peers in the club. He hit the ground running with the Profile and his efforts have become truly indispensable. Not only is he instrumental at keeping the gears of the Profile running smoothly with each edition, he's also found a new affinity for combining his BMW passion with investigative reporting and has authored a number of in depth exposés for the Profile. Highlighting places like Club Motorsports, and BMW of Stratham so far, he's looking forward to writing more such enlightening stories.

Since 2001 it's been only BMWs for Pete. Past rides include E46s, E39s and E90s. His current ride is a beautiful white on black & red 2013 328xi, with sport package of course - "it's fun!"

Know a fellow club member who did something special, or extraordinary or who went above and beyond normal expectations; someone you feel deserves a bit of special recognition? If so, you can put them in the spotlight right here! Simply submit a paragraph or two along with a photo if you can, and we'll turn on the spotlight. send all submissions and questions to: editor@whitemtn-bmwclub.org

Street Survival Returns
Teaching Skills to Save Lives

by Paul Lillios, Vice President

On a warm and sunny Saturday June 25th, more than 20 teenage drivers (accompanied by their parents) made their way to New Hampshire Motor Speedway for our Tire Rack Street Survival School, a "hands-on" driving experience that will stay with them forever. Our team of dedicated volunteers and by the end of the day, the nervous energy of the morning was almost completely replaced by enthusiasm and broad smiles instructors imparted confidence in driving skills throughout the entire day. These critical, lifesaving skills, ranged from emergency braking, to swerving around potentially deadly road hazards, to regaining control of a skidding car. The in-car instruction was further solidified by several classroom lectures throughout the day. I had the opportunity to meet many of the students, and was impressed at how mature they were - quite unlike how we normally generalize the typical teen to be (or how I remember myself at that age!) Nervous energy was quite evident in some of them in the morning - but that was almost completely replaced by enthusiasm and broad smiles by the time they wrapped up the class with the autocross and were packing up to head home.

We credit much of the success also to the extremely well developed program materials supplied by the folks from the BMW CCA Foundation, and of course the financial support from The Tire Rack, Michelin, and Enterprise Rent-A-Car.

But without the dedication and enthusiastic efforts of all the volunteers, none of the success would have been possible. So, many thanks to Emily Duane (Registration), Dave Tedeschi and Jim Viall (Co-Chief Instructors), Elizabeth Hummel and Bruce Bairstow (classroom), Vic Waryas (braking), Luka Serdar (skid pad), and Coaches Laura Fallis, CJ Danek, Jack Rich, Evan Wood, D. Lacombe, Carlos Giron, and any others I might be missing here. Then of course, there's Bruce Bergeron, who brought it all together, tirelessly thinking through every single detail of the necessary behind-the-scenes preparation that made it all happen.

Thanks to everyone who helped with, and participated in, this great event! You all know how worth it, it was.

You're only as old as you feel.

This replica 1972 BMW CSL Group II is owned by Bill Glavin Jr. At the time of this image, its power came from a 3.0 Liter M30 and Getrag 265/5 CR. The car is presently undergoing a complete upgrade to full Group II specs with a new M30 3.5 liter engine, including Kugelfischer injection and slide throttle induction, along with other upgrades that will allow the car to compete in events alongside the original factory cars. Recently, it has been actively raced with SVRA and other vintage organizations at Watkins Glen, Road Atlanta, and other east coast tracks.

BaT to the Rescue Or How to Find Enough Roof for All Days of the Week

By David Thibodeau, president

I will admit that ever since checking the Rennlist Listservs in the 1990s (yikes, was that 25 years ago and p-car lust?) the internet has delivered countless hours of daydreaming over classified ads for idyllic vintage German cars that are totally unknown by us in northern New England: Rust free. Never been rained on. Only driven to Sonoma on weekends during the grape harvest.

With a move to the Bay Area last fall, my son Chris opted to leave the MINI behind in the short term. Now that opened up several possibilities - solo MINI delivery road trip? Oh come on, it's only like 3,300 miles and there's actually a gas station every 10 miles or so (unlike some Arctic MINI runs you've been on - that's another story for another day). Or maybe, maybe it's just time to act on that California Dreamin' and find some "new" wheels.

California Dreamin': Chris with a smile and his new "long roof V8".

We began by trading text messages with links to what looked like pristine E30s and E34s on Craigslist. Deeper inspection of the photos or quick calls (or lack of return calls) from the sellers invariably turned up nits - title issues (my ex-wife has the title in Arizona), major mechanical issues (last started the car in 1998), or most often, the good ones get sold in 24 hours.

So we turned to swapping BaT links. Not familiar with "BaT"? How can any self-respecting car nut not look at BringATrailer.com, like a hundred times a day? So many interesting cars, so much want, most so far away.

How can any self-respecting car nut not look at BringATrailer.com, like a hundred times a day?

What's this? It's an E34 M5 in San Jose! Wait a minute, Chris, you don't have $25,000. Then, one day, OMG, it's a E34 530i touring in Palo Alto, with a million photos in the listing, a supposed one-family West-Coast car all its life and the records to prove it. Small block V8 recently rebuilt by a BMW dealer. Interior clean enough to eat from even after 22 years. With about 157 comments from the peanut gallery trying to knock the car down, but the seller steadfastly answering all of their questions the right way. Auction's at $1500 with 1 day to go? Can this be real? Must jump on this and bid immediately. So after 24 hours of auction tension, getting caught up in a bidding war (it's a long roof remember, it's a V8 long roof!), and bidding just few hundred more than Chris's budget allowed. And then... voilà - a win!

Just a few days and a plane ticket later I met Chris at the San Francisco airport and we headed to the planned meeting with Kyle, the seller. Now we knew that a current CA smog certificate was the only detail that Kyle had hedged on a bit, but we had agreed to meet at "4-Less-Smog-Check" - and if it passed, we'd swap the cash for the title immediately, and if it flunked, we'd be heading to the nearest BMW mechanic. Kyle and the car were already in the bay being tested when we arrived at 8:30am, and five minutes later it passed!

After some paper and BMW story swapping, and after a spirited drive across the Stanford Campus and up the scenic and twisty I-280, across the city and Golden Gate Bridge (why can't we have nice things like this in New Hampshire) we arrived back at Chris' apartment. A quick brake fluid flush, replaced a couple of fuses and the windows worked again. A most memorable way to find a vehicle and to spend a few days messing around in cars with family.

Now, when is that 3,300 mile MINI road trip again? ■

Getting Back to Basics Run-Flat Alternatives for Every Season

by David Harrison

I refuse to debate the wisdom of OEM run-flat tires versus conventional tires as the best choice for my BMWs. Rachele's 2012 X3 came with run-flats. Since we paid for them, we will use them (all summer long). But they will be in my basement before every Thanksgiving because I am a longtime believer in winter tires and wheels for the white season.

As much as I love winter tires for the cold months, they do incur the additional cost (financial and storage) of having two sets of shoes for the X3. However I always seem to find good sources for soft and knobby rubber at reasonable prices (and creative storage takes up little space). I simply refuse to pay for expensive replacement run-flat tires when I have cheaper and better options. I buy conventional summer performance and winter tires, but non-run-flat tires. This necessitates the need for a backup spare.

This idea is not solely my logical conclusion, it's also the belief of countless other drivers who are not necessarily the nervous type. Hence, there are small space-saver wheels and tires for sale on the market with fitments that will accommodate most, if not all, modern BMWs.

The closest and easiest way for me to find a miniature wheel and tire set was Bavarian Autosport in Portsmouth. For a few hundred bucks I bought the set and some piece of mind is now stashed in the back hatch. The "mini-donut" weighs in at only 33lbs. compared to the OEM cargo room hog, full-sizer at 70 lbs.

if you desire to abandon your run-flat tires, there is an easy solution to get back to basics

For relatively little money:
your basic scissor jack and a mini-donut.

Additionally, I needed to remember to include a scissor jack and 17mm wrench with the setup. I found a used BMW jack and wrench on ebay that came from a first generation X3 - only $75. If you'd prefer new however, BMW also sells a complete jack/wrench/gloves combo in a spiffy tote for $170. Either option satisfies the need for insurance against being left stranded with a flat tire after doing battle with a New Hampshire pothole.

So if for whatever reason you desire to abandon your run-flat tires, there is an easy solution to get back to basics. It only takes a little creativity and a little time shopping to be ready for flat tire emergencies with a fifth wheel and jack in the boot. ■
